

ABSTRACT

Radio communication terminal (M_1) including communication means providing a connection to one or more application servers (AS) via a communication network (RAN_1 , CN, SN). It is characterized in that it includes measurement means adapted to send at least one message to at least one application server and to determine at least one quality of service measurement as a function of the response(s) to said at least one message.

Figure : 1